

A photograph of a circular metal chamber, possibly a vacuum chamber or a specialized experimental setup. The chamber has a thick, polished metal rim. Inside the chamber, a central component is visible, featuring a bright blue light source. The component has a square base with four small circular features and a complex, stepped structure extending to the right. The chamber is secured by four screws around the perimeter. A scale bar in the bottom left corner indicates a length of 1 cm.

1 cm